Greetings from your HPHS Alumni Association:

What a great time to be a Highland Park Scot! In February, millions watched from all over the world as our very own Matthew Stafford ’06 led the Los Angeles Rams to victory in Super Bowl LVI. On the same day, HP's Scottie Scheffler ’14 brought home his first PGA Tour victory by winning the Phoenix Open. Add those accomplishments to the list already headed by Clayton Kershaw ’06 and his 2020 World Series championship with the Los Angeles Dodgers, and it gets very difficult not to swell with pride. Highland Park is indeed a special place and your Alumni Association ties it all together.

Together we have experienced changes, obstacles, and opportunities in our District. As a community, we have navigated the ongoing challenges of a global pandemic, celebrated the passage of a Voter Approved Tax Rate Election that is helping our District increase teacher pay, and welcomed hundreds of new families who have relocated to Texas.

One thing hasn’t changed. For over 100 years, Highland Park continues to be the pinnacle community destination in Dallas: the passion, commitment, and legacy of excellence our community provides runs deep, keeping our schools exceptional.

In this edition of Scot Times, we are proud to share stories featuring the remarkable generosity of our community that goes above and beyond to serve our District and the mission of HPEF.

As a HP parent and HPEF Board President, I'm grateful for you and our community of Scots who always find a way to continue our great legacy of Entering to Learn and Going Forth to Serve.

Scots Find a Way! Go Scots!

Greeting from your HPHS Alumni Association:

What a great time to be a Highland Park Scot! In February, millions watched from all over the world as our very own Matthew Stafford ’06 led the Los Angeles Rams to victory in Super Bowl LVI. On the same day, HP's Scottie Scheffler ’14 brought home his first PGA Tour victory by winning the Phoenix Open. Add those accomplishments to the list already headed by Clayton Kershaw ’06 and his 2020 World Series championship with the Los Angeles Dodgers, and it gets very difficult not to swell with pride. Highland Park is indeed a special place and your Alumni Association ties it all together.

Our theme for the Scot Times this year is “Destination HP,” and inside, you will get to read about the important places and traditions that make HP alumni proud to be Scots. You will also discover so many new things that are bringing alumni back to our community to work, raise a family, and continue the legacy of excellence we all know and appreciate.

I personally invite you to Connect, Support, and Celebrate with your classmates and all fellow HP alumni. This is one of the greatest Alumni Associations in the world, but we need your input and support to keep the fire burning bright. If you’re not a member, JOIN TODAY and get involved! If you are a member, keep fanning that flame.

Once a Scot...Always a Scot!

Herbert D. Weitzman, executive chairman of Weitzman, a full-service commercial real estate brokerage firm based in Texas, was inducted into the Dallas Business Hall of Fame in 2018. Also in 2018, Herb and his wife, Donna, established the Herbert D. Weitzman Institute for Real Estate at the University of Texas at Dallas. For his “exceptional support, dedication, passion, and enthusiasm” for UT Dallas’ vision, Herb received the Gifford K. Johnson Community Leadership Award from UT Dallas in 2022.

Diane Fullingim (below right) joined the Ronald McDonald House of Dallas as the Chief Development Officer in January 2013. Dan Tubb ’81, former defensive back for the HPHS football team (above left #22), is now the Senior Director of Sales for The Towers of the Waldorf Astoria Residences in New York with Douglas Elliman Real Estate (above right). Interestingly, he didn’t leave Highland Park with a goal of a career in luxury real estate. It was a passion for musical theater and talent for singing, discovered during his time at UT Austin, that eventually landed him in New York City. After years of living in various neighborhoods of NYC, Dan realized he had a knack for house hunting, which he turned into a way to make money through selling real estate. In an article published by People Newspapers about his role at the Waldorf Astoria, Tubb said, “With 375 residences, this will be the first time people have an opportunity to own in this historic space. I’m thrilled to be a part of the journey.”

Cheers to 20 more!

Since 1924, over 34,000 HPHS graduates have walked the stage to receive a Highland Park High School diploma. Graduates received an excellent education that launched them into their next chapter of life. Time after time, the Alumni Association often hears from HPHS alumni that they would not be where they are in life without the foundation that HPHS provided for them. Tradition runs deep at Highland Park and the memories and friendships last a lifetime. Now is the time to stay connected, give your support, and celebrate with classmates.

The HPHS Alumni Association continues to thrive today by allowing alumni to connect with classmates through class reunions and other events such as the Golden Scots Reunion, Alumni Awards, and all-class happy hours. It has been an exciting year with over 15 classes coming together for their class reunions. HPHS Class of 1956 celebrated their 65th reunion!

We invite you to stay engaged with the Alumni Association. Joining will gain you access to our online directory. We are proud that our alumni membership has grown to over 3,100 members. Once a Scot, always a Scot!

Alumna Nancy MacGregor O’Neil ’54 establishes an estate planned bequest to share her love of HP schools with generations to come

Born and raised in Highland Park, Nancy MacGregor O’Neil, had an unusually unique childhood. At the age of five, Nancy started school at Armstrong Elementary before traveling away from Highland Park with her mother to New York City, where her education took place in the museums and art galleries of the Big Apple. It was like a page right of the children’s book Eloise, and eventually, Nancy missed her friends and school in HP.

After attending Hockaday for grades 5–8, Nancy recalls that over half of her class left to go to Highland Park Junior High for 9th grade. HPHS was the destination school to attend. 68 years later, Nancy still recalls the teachers that left an indelible mark on her life and education. There was Ms. Miller who taught American History and Ms. Steed who taught her how to write in English class. Mr. Binnion, who had his M.A. in Economics, was the most memorable for how well he taught Civics. “The teachers were wonderful,” said Nancy. “They were smart, they pushed me, and encouraged me to do anything I dreamed of.”

Through all the personal life changes Nancy experienced, HPHS gave her an important foundation of stability and support. “I had so many friends in high school. All my life, through all the things that happened, those friends had my back.” Nancy fondly remembers having Coca-Cola parties in the afternoons after school, riding bikes to each other’s homes. She won the “H” Award and remembers working through the night as manager of the Bagpipe (photo above right) with dear friend Linna Nash, laying out the ads and columns for the bi-weekly publication. Her best friend, Betty Turner, was the head cheerleader and Nancy, loving the behind-the-scenes work, would plan and coordinate all of the pep rallies for Betty and the other students to perform.

Nancy has a brother, five sons, and two grandchildren who all attended HPISD. She served on every PTA, ran the Hyer cafeteria, served on the Alumni board, and currently sits on the Highland Park Education Foundation board (photo below right). When asked why she included the Foundation in her estate plans, Nancy didn’t have to think twice, “I love it here. Highland Park gave me the best friends, it gave me family, and I think it’s a great school system. I want it to stay superior for my children and grandchildren.”

“I LOVE IT HERE. HIGHLAND PARK GAVE ME THE BEST FRIENDS, IT GAVE ME FAMILY, AND I THINK IT’S A GREAT SCHOOL SYSTEM.”

- NANCY MACGREGOR O’NEIL, HPHS CLASS OF 1954

Our Mad for Plaid campaign supports one thing: the District’s immediate, greatest need. An overwhelming response of generosity to the 20–21 campaign enabled the Foundation to fulfill the District’s request for $1.2 million that is essential to their bottom-line teacher and staff salary budget, ensuring we have the best and brightest educators in the classroom. Thanks to the leadership of our campaign co-chairs and campus representatives, our fundraising results blew past expectations, and the Foundation granted an additional $375,000 to provide one-time stipends for teachers and staff district-wide!

The more our donors give, the more we can do for our teachers and staff. The success of this campaign shines a bright ray of encouragement on our teachers who feel inspired by the community’s commitment and care. “Providing boosts in pay has increased teacher morale. The generosity and support of Mad for Plaid donors allows for our successes and ability to sustain a standard of excellence for our students,” said Mr. Jenkins, 8th grade Broadcast Journalism teacher. We’re grateful to every Mad for Plaid donor whose gifts helps us serve every student, every teacher, and every school.

The Mad for Plaid Leadership Society is the cornerstone of our campaign and provides donors with the opportunity to significantly invest in the excellence of HPISD. A special thank you goes to these generous donors for their inspiring generosity.

From beautiful schools nestled in the heart of Dallas, to its vibrant community of national award-winning teachers and students across all areas of academics, arts, and athletics, our HP school district is a destination rooted in century old traditions. The Foundation works at the intersection of all the unique components that weave together the remarkable landscape of our district. Together we celebrate the partnership of students, educators, parents, grandparents, alumni, and local businesses who, together, embody the school district’s motto, “Enter to Learn, Go Forth to Serve.”

William Prieur - MIS/HPMS Dads Club President-Elect
William and his family (pictured left) moved to Highland Park in the summer of 2019 and immediately felt welcome, and when asked “why here,” the answer was simple—community. “My family and I feel a tremendous sense of family, community, and pride being here. I personally have seen firsthand how the community has welcomed our family, and it’s very humbling,” Prieur said. William sees the holistic benefit an HPISD education provides to his children and is encouraged by it. “We feel the Park Cities and HPISD not only offer our children an opportunity to continue their growth in both academics and athletics, but it also offers the opportunity to grow personally and socially with their peers,” Prieur said.
A teacher ignites the fire that fuels a student’s thirst for knowledge, curiosity, and wisdom. Teachers have the gift to open the minds of students beyond the textbook and apply knowledge to everyday life. This is HPHS English teacher, Dr. Linder O’Rourke (pictured left).

Dr. O’Rourke, known by her students as Dr. O, did not initially want to become a teacher. Upon graduating from high school, the Dallasite headed west to attend UCLA. Drawn to the Chinese language, she originally planned to be a Chinese translator and work for the United Nations. A wonderful class in children’s literature opened Dr. O to the idea of becoming a teacher. She graduated with a B.S. in English in both American and British literature. Her love of education blossomed and while still in California, she earned a M.S. in secondary education as a Reading Specialist. Dr. O acquired her Ph.D. at Claremont Graduate University/Pomona Colleges in 1994 with a focus on male dominated language in literature texts and its effects on adolescent construction of gender. After 15 years in California, Dr. O was ready to return to her Texas roots.

“I value the academic freedom, students’ drive to succeed, and solid support from administration and parents,” says Dr. O about why she has taught for 26 years at Highland Park High School. HPHS alumni send her emails frequently telling her how prepared they have been for college. Teaching real life in the classroom with her own experiences has helped prepare her students. She often tells students to stay curious, balance technology with old world approach, engage with teachers and value what they can bring to a classroom, and stay open minded.

HPHS standards are higher than some colleges and Dr. O sees her students are willing to improve, have great attitudes, and are motivated by encouragement, which is why she has made HPISD her teaching home.

Amy McNulty, 2021-22 HPMS PTA President
Though Amy and her husband (pictured above) did not attend Highland Park, some of her husband’s family did. Fast forward 20 years later, after they watched his youngest brother play basketball in the HPHS gym, they are in the same gym, watching their oldest daughter dance as a New Girl with the Highland Belles. “Surprisingly, the gym looked smaller than I remember from so many years ago, but the HP spirit and pride sure came rushing back just like it was yesterday,” McNulty said.
Phillip, a prominent trial attorney at Winstead PC, began his law career at Haynes Boone where he learned firsthand from then HPISD Trustee, Mike Boone ’59, about the challenges HPISD faced with the state funding formula for public schools. With three boys entering HP schools in the early 2000’s, Holly and Phillip (below left) embraced early on how important parent involvement and private support was to maintain the excellence of our schools. Now, 22 years later, after decades of volunteering with HPISD, HPEF, and the City of University Park, the Philbin’s have established two endowed funds with the Foundation: the Holly and Phillip Philbin Legacy Fund for districtwide needs, and the Holly and Phillip Philbin Legacy Fund for Men’s Cross Country. These gifts reflect a significant moment for the Philbin’s whose youngest will graduate HPHS in the spring of 2023. “We know that by establishing these funds, it helps the schools long after our sons graduate. These are gifts that keep on giving,” said Holly.

The Legacy Funds of the Tartan Endowment will help the kids who come after Charlie ’18, Luke ’20, and Mark ’23 (below right). By establishing two funds, Holly and Phillip realized they could do something near and dear to their hearts, but also help with what’s most needed by the district. Holly explained, “It might not be as glamorous, but we can never anticipate what the district might need in the future and it’s just as important to support those unknown needs as it is a program like cross country,” Phillip added, “Holly and I want to see the cross country program continue to succeed far beyond our boys time, and we are proud to help make sure the team has additional resources to enable the ongoing teaching of important life lessons.”

“...the excellence of our students, teachers, and schools has been the hallmark of all we expect and appreciate at Highland Park. Our facilities have always been wonderful, and now after completing six years of major construction at every campus throughout the District, they have been taken to new levels, propelling us to one of the top educational destinations in the state of Texas.”

- Bryce Benson, HPISD Trustee and HPEF board liaison

How would you describe your experience growing up and going to school in HPISD?
Going to school in HPISD has been an experience shared with friends. I always felt welcomed in my classes, and this open atmosphere—something teachers and students alike helped promote—made learning that much easier. The friends I made during my time at HPISD made it memorable and meaningful.

How has HPISD prepared you for the future?
My time at HPISD has helped me become a better communicator—it’s a skill I’ll need wherever I go, whatever I do. Working with friends, classmates, and my Academic Decathlon (ACDEC) team were critical in developing my social skills. Being able to communicate my ideas effectively is perhaps the most important skill I’ve learned at HPISD.

What’s one achievement you’ve obtained during your educational career that means a lot to you?
One of the biggest achievements I made while at HPISD was receiving the highest objective score in the nation at the National Academic Decathlon competition last year. We—the ACDEC team—had been studying for this competition since summer 2020, so nationals felt like a grand culmination of all our efforts. Getting this score was the result of months of hard work, so I’m really proud of this particular achievement—it meant that objectively, I had performed better than anyone in the entire nation.

Can you share about a teacher that has made an impact on you?
David Alvarado made an impact on me personally and my education; his methods of teaching always felt personalized and friendly while still being serious. He would banter with us and make us feel accepted in class, but also ensured we put in the effort—we could have fun as long as we worked for it. I’ve tried adopting that blend of friendliness and seriousness in life as a whole.

Anything else you’d like to share?
ACDEC was one of my favorite courses in my entire school experience. I honestly believe that anyone could benefit from being a part of ACDEC: it teaches study skills, teamwork, better communication skills, and so much more. It also accepts students of all academic backgrounds and levels, providing opportunities for GPA maximizers and more laidback students alike.
As a four-star Charity Navigator organization, we strive to maintain the highest standard of financial integrity and transparency. We are mindful stewards of our donors’ support, and we work to raise the critical funds necessary for continuing HPISD’s tradition of exemplary education.

A LETTER FROM WORTHY WILES, HPHS CLASS OF 2021 & HPHS ALUMNI ASSOCIATION SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENT

Growing up in the Park Cities is something that I will always be grateful for. It showed me what a community is supposed to look like, and how to support each other in any situation. This came to fruition last year when we had to battle COVID-19 together. The amount of sacrifices made to further the success of others was incredible to see. Whether it was for a sports team or other extra curricular event or just being able to go to school safely, there is no other group that I would’ve wanted to do it for more than last year’s senior class. The other thing I love so much about having grown up in the Park Cities, is that I was able to relate to so many of my dad’s experiences. We both went to Hyer (go Huskies!) and then the middle and high schools. Seeing him still be best friends with some of his senior class only strengthened my sense of community with mine. To this day, some of my best friends are from kindergarten, and I wouldn’t trade it for the world.

The HPHS Alumni Association is one of the greatest programs that I have been a part of. They have been able to help me financially during my first year of college with the Alumni Association Scholarship, and will continue to help me stay rooted in my community after I graduate. I look forward to my class reunions in the future and hope to one day give my kids the same great experiences I had growing up in the Park Cities.

HPISD teachers and staff received a compensation increase for each of the next three years, thanks to the overwhelming approval of the Golden Penny Election. Prior to the election, HPISD’s average teacher salary is 24th out of 25 comparison districts in North Texas. Voters who live within HPISD approved the election authorizing the school district to access 4 “golden pennies,” which are not subject to Recapture by the State of Texas, to supplement the school district’s budget to address staff compensation. Even with approval of the golden pennies, property tax rates for homeowners who live within HPISD decreased to a five-year low.

“Attracting and retaining high quality staff is absolutely critical to maintaining our tradition of excellence in HPISD,” said Superintendent Dr. Tom Trigg. “Our staff members have always known that the community is behind them and the outcome of this election makes a powerful statement. Thank you to HPISD voters for supporting our dedicated staff members. While this won’t solve all of our compensation challenges, this is a significant step in the right direction.”
Five and a half years ago, the Highland Park ISD community made a significant financial commitment to the education of HP students by passing a historic $361 million bond program to transform every HPISD school, some of which were built nearly 100 years ago, into educational centers designed to support learning for the next century.

The final bond project is the new three-story classroom wing at HPHS that is located where the old natatorium once stood. On the first day of school August 18, 2021, students began using the new space. Classrooms feature technology connectivity, new furniture and spaces that replicate business and higher education environments.
